

ITTY BITTY RACE UPDATE

(You know, the size of Mushroom Spohr)

This Saturday and Sunday is the return of the Stockton Mile - the only mile race west of a big river somewhere in the Midwest this year. It's gonna be a wild two days of racing and bashing and slidin' and slippin' on a long cushion track. Come watch the daring do and a few who don't and won't.

The pros will be returning from three weeks straight of racing in Peoria, Indy, and Springfield (two day event ending Monday night) so their shit will be busted up and lookin' like Ken Heuser's historic collection.

We'll be selling shit there so dump your wallet upside down and get a new T Shirt.

A detailed illustration of a motorcycle racer in a grey and blue suit, wearing a blue helmet, leaning into a turn on a dirt track. The rider's number '1' is visible on the front fairing, and 'WCFTS' is written above it. The motorcycle is a flat track style with a large front tire and a smaller rear tire.

A big double-wide trailerload of congratulations go out to Slo Waynn Karcich for already clinching the WCFTS Classic Twins Championship, two races before the end of the series.

#2 in the championship series sends his thumbs up your way!

(even though, in private, he says you're a pussy)

Please listen very carefully to the first portion of this clip, right before the formal interview begins. Brother Anthony Mitchell is heard imploring, “What did I do?” “You ran right over my fuckin’ [sound masked by interviewer and background noise]....” Finish third, arrange to have Carousel Swanson there to strategically hand him the requisite cool cigarette b4 interview and blame your brother.

Any equally big slap of the back to up-and-coming kid Scott "Boogie" Hampton for securing the 2009 WCFTS 250 Sportman Class Championship. Last seen, Boogie had broken a couple of bones in his foot/leg and was perched on Dad's lap for the podium interview. Check it out here: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ZTrsjLkhxKA>

Hey, while we're saying "well, that's some cool shit", it should be known that Chad Cose had fast qualifying time back in Springfield on Saturday night, only for the race to be rained out later that night. Today, they are running it again and he got second fastest qualifying, but finished 5th in his heat race.

Slamsonite took a handsome 3rd place at the Springfield Mile yesterday after winning the Dash For Cash. It's a tight, tight race for second place in the GNC twins series and even closer for the overall GNC combined singles and twins. Coolbeth sat out the race due to a broken shoulder suffering in a training incident last Tuesday. Here's the overall points as I count them:

Sammy Halbert:	187
Jared Mees:	186
Joe Kopp:	183
Kenny Coolbeth:	163
Jake Johnson:	163

Last Stop: Pomona! Go Sammy!
